PUBLIC INVITED TO MAKE CONTRIBUTION TO FACTORY FUNDS

EVERYONE CAN MAKE THEIR CONTRIBUTION TOWARD RAISING THE MONEY NEEDED.

LIST AT GAZETTE OFFICE

Sums of Any Size Solicited By Committee In Charge of Campaign—Moving Picture Houses Interested.

Janesville is waking up to the campaign that is being waged to raise the needed twelve thousand dollars to be used to bring to this city the Gossard factory which will employ between four and six hundred hands when running full force. It is one of the best propositions that has been offered this city in the way of a "going industry," and its acceptance cannot be neglected by citizens generally.

While the committee having charge of raising the needed money is engaged in personally visiting business and professional men seeking contributions, there are many who can not afford to give a large sum but would like to play their individual part in bringing the factory here as far as their means will permit. To meet such a demand the Gazette has offered to accept all contributions—both large and small—to be added to the sum total.

The contributors can either sign the list that will be found at the business office of the Gazette or simply deposit a bill and the moving picture will all be credited to the general fund and will add materially in the final outcome of the campaign to raise the $12,000 needed. Several contributions of a dollar and larger sums have been received, and it is expected that many will avail themselves of this opportunity of doing their share of bringing a paying industry to the city.

The interest in the campaign is not flagging a bit and the moving picture houses are offering their services, one night's receipts, for the general cause. The dates and plans for these benefit performances will be made public later and it is expected that many will enjoy their evening and at the same time do their share in the general work.

SOUNDS FIRE ALARM MAILING HIS LETTER

Fourth Ward Visitor Duplicates Stunt of Others in Mistaking Fire Alarm Box for Mail Box.

Some young man visiting in the Fourth ward in this city had a letter to mail yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock. He started out to look for one of Uncle Sam's green mail boxes. Instead he found a red fire alarm box, that one has to break a glass, obtain a key, open the door and pull down the hook to send in an alarm. As he had a dozen letters to mail, he attempted this method, the stranger decided he would mail his letter in the fire alarm box. He tried to, but failed.

For the first time in thirty years there was not a house used to answer a box alarm, according to Chief Klein after the run yesterday. Three of the fire wagons made the run, and two of them with autos and the third, the hose wagon, was drawn by an automobile, as all the department horses are affected by a strange disease, rendering them unfit for service. The auto trucks have answered many still alarms, but when box alarms are sounded at least one of the horse drawn vehicles is always taken out.

This morning Chief Klein said that the horses were recovering from their sickness. The stalls and stable part of the station was thoroughly disinfected by the firemen today.

COUNCIL IS SCHEDULED TO HOLD MEETING TODAY
Minor business is scheduled to be brought before the city council at the regular session this afternoon. Bills for the past two weeks, and the salary resolution, are in the hands of City Clerk J. P. Hammelund to be submitted to the commissioners.

Ever Eat Grape-Nuts?

There's a vast army of physical and mental workers who do.
One reason—it's delicious nut-like flavour.
Another—it is easily and quickly digested—generally in about one hour.

But the big reason is—Grape-Nuts, besides having delicious taste, supplies all the rich nutriment of whole wheat and malted barley, including the "vital" mineral salts necessary for building brain, nerve and muscle.

Always ready to eat direct from the package, Grape-Nuts with cream or good milk is a well balanced ration—the utmost in sound nourishment.

PUPILS AT SCHOOL BUILD BIRD HOUSES

Boys at Continuation School Build Many Bird Houses During Winter

Many People Provide for Birds
Pupils at the Industrial school which is held at the Lincoln school building have become very interested in birds and bird life. Illustrated slides have been shown of bird life and also of the many different types of bird houses. They have constructed many little houses during the past winter and now an exhibition is being held of their products in the display window of the H. L. McNamara hardware store on West Milwaukee street.

Houses for all kinds of Wisconsin birds that are around Janesville have been made and over thirty are in the collection. By providing shelter for our feathered friends there will be an increase in the number of birds which is very essential to every community. People in the city should be interested in the birds that are about the city during the cold spring days.

There are the greatest number of new houses going up all over the city, but in the localities where there are children who are being taught the love of nature, and the houses are the most artistic little pieces of architecture one could possibly imagine.

There are Swiss chalets, California bungalow styles, colonial houses, rustic huts, and most of them are no larger than one by one and a half or two feet, while the majority are measured in inches. There are also a few apartment houses and castles among the number.

Are Built for Birds.
These houses are the fads of the hour in the bird lovers' circles and many home owners have gone daily about the city to see the birds that occupy the of the wrens, martins, blue birds, tree swallows, flickers and other birds which nest in sheltered places or houses.

To be sure it is a little early for the birds, but the birds are almost all here now, and they scorn the limitations of a roofed over house and prefer to build their nests in the trees, so it will be some weeks before the bird houses are all occupied.

These houses are placed in the trees or sometimes on tall poles or often fastened against the residences on the sheltered side and many of them are most ornamental.

Painted in Gay Colors.
Sometimes they are stained green, yellow, dark red or brown and are of wood, bark, or twigs and are made water proof. Some are red, blue and white and others are for just one small family.

The bluebirds and robins are about the first birds to arrive in Janesville in the spring. Later the wrens and martins reach here the latter part of April, and the tree swallows about April 23. Then the search begins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wren are just as particular as the others when it comes to selecting a home and it is amusing to watch them. When they find a house perched up in a tree they look it over on the outside before venturing inside. The wren flies up to the roof and peeks down through the window, and after they have satisfied themselves as to the desirability of the place, they fly away to inspect the interior.

At the time the wrens are not known whether they will rent for one or not until some time later when the birds move in and Mr. Wren begins to carry twigs to build the nest. Later in the season the little wrens come hopping to the door.

BROTHERHOODS MEET AT BANQUET TONIGHT

Will Enjoy Address by Dr. Charles W. Gilkey to Chicago on "The Hyphenated Christian."

Members of the men's clubs of the Janesville churches will hold their annual union banquet this evening at the Baptist church. There will be accommodations for nearly three hundred at the dinner which is in charge of a committee of ladies of the Baptist church.

Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church, Chicago, will be the speaker of the evening, his subject being "The Hyphenated Christian." Reverend Gilkey is one of the leaders in his denomination and has gained great prominence in his activity among the men of the world. He is a speaker of ability and will have a message that will stir up thought and action.

There will be a reception for a half hour previous to the banquet, which will be served promptly at 6:45.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A Brief Chronicle.
CHAPTER I.

In the eighth year of the reign of Rev. J. C. Hazen over the Baptist church which is in Janesville, it came to pass that a church of like faith in a neighboring state was without a pastor.

Now the fame of Rev. Hazen, his goodness and all the gracious deeds that he had done spread abroad through the land even unto the city, which lieth to the south in the way which goeth down into Egypt.

And when the Baptists in that city heard thereof they said among themselves, "Behold, there is a strange thing! A Baptist minister, even in Wisconsin, hath remained upon one field more than seven years! Let us go unto Janesville and see this wonderful man for, he may be just the one that we want."

So they sent two of their number, even two spies, who journeying, came unto Janesville and entered into the church on the Sabbath day at the hour of morning worship.

The Janesville people, seeing strangers in their midst, gave them cordial welcome and seated them in one of the best pews, because it hath been said of old that some have entertained angels unwares; but now it doth appear that all strangers are not angels.

So when these men had looked upon Rev. Hazen and heard his sermon, and knew that the half had not been told unto them, they communed one with the other and decided in their hearts to entice him away from the place where he was laboring, and had made known his conviction and purpose unto his people that he may be free to go elsewhere as God leatheth him.

HOG MARKET SLOW; PRICES HOLD HIGH

High Average Fixed on Monday—Cattle Demand Steady.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, March 28.—Demand for hogs was slow this morning but prices held up well to Monday's high average due largely to the light run, estimated at 15,000 head. Cattle and sheep were in steady demand with no important changes in quotations. Following is a summary of the prices:

Rye—No. 2, 95¢.

Barley—60¢ to 74¢.

Monday's Markets.
Chicago, March 28.—Yesterday's receipts of hogs were smallest of the year for Monday. Washouts on several roads made probable arrivals uncertain.

Best selected singling swine sold to Canadians at $10.10, equaling previous high at this time, paid March 10, when best heavy made $10.10 and "singers" $10.05.

Six years ago, yesterday, the last Monday in March, 1910, best hogs sold at $11.20, with the average $11.03, highest on record. Receipts for the twelve months of 1910 were smallest in twelve years.

All previous records were broken in the lamb trade yesterday, best Colorado-fed Mexicans selling at $11.90, being 20¢ above last week's top. Average price of best cattle yesterday was highest of the year at $9.40.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.38, against $9.80 Saturday, $9.56 a week ago, $6.30 a year ago and $5.62 two years ago.

Late Cattle Trade Weak.
After a steady to 15¢ higher start yesterday's cattle market closed weak. Best steers offered sold at $10, with choice heifers at $9. Calves closed 5¢ lower, selling largely at $9 to $9.75.

ELK BOWLERS GET 2532 WHEN THEY ROLL IN TOURNEY

Three Janesville Bowling Fives Roll in Tourney Last Night But No New Records Are Made.

Janesville Elks were the stars at the Miller alley last night where the southern Wisconsin bowling tournament is being held. They were not the stars for the whole tourney by any means, but only for last night. Three five-man teams had the alleys, all of which were lodge men, one from the Elks and the other two from the Knights of Columbus.

The Elks got the best score and their game resulted with a total of 2532 pins to their credit. The tournament individual score was made by 1000 when in the last event he topped over 250 of the sticks. Higgins also rolled in the two hundred class with a score of 215. The Elks started out poorly and in the first game they only got 776. In the second they took a wide jump and landed over 1000 hundred pins. They couldn't stand such a good score so in the last event they dropped down to 880 and this gave them a total of 2532 for the whole game.

One of the K. C. teams did fairly well, while the other fell down and only got 2289 pins. The first one, composed of Hayes, McCue, Semett, Huel and Kinsky, came within ten pins of the twenty-five hundred mark. In this game some good scores were made and McCue was high man with 211 pins in the second event. Madden the other five had a score of 210.

Kirchoff and Howard were the only pair to roll in the double class last night and the results of their efforts were only 885 pins. Scores:

BOWLING SECRETARY CLAIMS ARTS WAS MAN'S FIRST SPORT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Toledo, O., March 28.—Some form of bowling was man's first sport, according to A. A. ("Abe") Langtry, secretary of the American Bowling Congress, which is holding its annual tournament here.

Mr. Langtry is authority for the statement that, in all probability, a game where human skulls were used for balls and human bones for pins was played by the cave dwellers and that from this prehistoric beginning the game has followed mankind down to the present. Mr. Langtry is considered an authority on bowling. Nine pins was a great game in England in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries. However, this game was changed to ten pins because of laws issued against gambling with nine pins. By adding the one pin the sport was changed and the law regarding gambling did not apply. Abraham Lincoln, according to Secretary Langtry, was a devotee of bowling and some of the old game scores he rolled as early as 1855 are still preserved. Even since the growth of baseball, bowling has held its own. Secretary Langtry said. He estimated that more than $200,000,000 now is invested in the equipment in the alleys of America alone.

TROUT SEASON SOON AT HAND IN WISCONSIN

April 15 is Date Set by State When First Legal Catches Can Be Made.

The eve of April 15 will see many of the trout fishing enthusiasts on their way to the pools and falls of the northern streams. The season will open this year the same as in previous years being closed since September 1, and this year gives promise to be a better season for the fishing of the finny tribe.

Northern Wisconsin is known far and wide as the best fishing grounds of the northwest and sportsmen from all over the country plan to spend at least two weeks enjoying the camp life on the shores of one of our northern lakes. The large lakes abound with fish that afford ample sport and the scenery and outdoor life is the best in the world.

The law states in regard to the other fish that can be taken in the state in counties bordering on the Mississippi river.

"Pike can be taken from May 29 to March 1, with no limit as to the catch but the fish must be not less than thirteen inches in length. Catfish can be taken from May 29 to March 1, with no limit as to quantity but they must be at least fifteen inches round. "No limits are prescribed as to quantity or size in regard to perch and sunfish."

FIELDER JONES BELIEVES IN SWITCHING PITCHERS SO KEEPS THE SOUTHPAWS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Louis, March 28.—A hint that he will use his old tactics of swiftly changing pitchers in crises was given by Fielder Jones, new manager of the Browns, at the training camp. Somebody suggested, noting that George Sisler was being worked as a pitcher in addition to first baseman, outfielder and penman, that Jones would put overburdened with southpaws.

"You can't have too many of any kind," said Jones. "Did you ever stop to think that the elimination of one dangerous batter in a pinch may win a ball game for you? If, as I say, I am overloaded with left-handers, I may revive the practice of using certain pitchers for certain batters. We worry of having too many good southpaws will never turn my hair gray."

MICHIGAN FIGHTER MEETS JOHNNY MURPHY TONIGHT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Marshfield, Wis., March 28.—Ford Munger of Kalamazoo, Mich., will meet Johnny Murphy of St. Paul in a ten round bout here tonight. Dan Rogers of Sparta and Ed. Sharpe, a Green Bay youngster, will meet in the semi-main event. Paul Nufkie, LaCrosse, and Tufty Nickelson of Marinette will box six rounds in a preliminary and Kid Blaetter of Marshfield will fight Young Stafford of Eau Claire in the curtain raiser.

Fighting promoters at Marshfield have been staging some good cards this season and it is expected that there will be a crowded house. George Duffy of Milwaukee will referee the bout and Mark Bellis of Wausau will count the time.

WILBUR ROACH IS HOPE OF LOUISVILLE FOR FLAG

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Louisville, Ky., March 28.—Wilbur (Roxey) Roach, star shortstop, and last year a member of the Federal league, will play for the Louisville team. Roach's first lieutenant in attempting to land the American association pennant for Louisville, Roach formerly played under Olymper in the International league and has made such an impression at the Colonel's Columbia, Tenn., training camp that he has been chosen captain.

MISTAKE BY OFFICIALS COSTS ATHLETE RECORD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Lawrence, Kans., March 28.—An official at the dual indoor meet between Missouri and Kansas at Kansas City, by mistake added an extra lap to the mile run, and probably took away from Herriott, the Jayhawker, a new record for the event. As it was the time was announced as 4:18 and it is believed here that without the extra lap Herriott would have broken the old mark of 4:34, which he made last year by a full second.

NORTHWESTERN SEEKS CONFERENCE SCHOOL TO ENFORCE 2-SPORT RULE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Urbana, Ill., March 28.—Conference colleges have been asked by Northwestern to follow its lead in attempting a two-sport rule. Illinois was a pioneer in proposing its general adoption some time ago and George Huff, athletic director, is said to favor it, but independent action may not find such strong support.

CHAMPION PANZARETA WILL BE SENT TO A TEXAS RANCH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Louisville, March 28.—Announcement that the sprint champion Panzaretta, famous for her ability to score over high class thoroughbreds with weight up, will be sent to the Texas ranch of her owner, H. S. Newcomb, after the present Hot Springs meeting, has caused disappointment to Kentucky and Eastern race goers. "The Queen of the Turf," however, had a grueling season at New Orleans, where she won a number of events.

WHITE SOX PIN HOPES TO TWIRLING TRIO

Manager Rowland of the Chicago White Sox is expecting much from this whiff wind pitching trio in the American league pennant race this year. Benz is the first major league pitcher to go the route this year, and he went it a few days ago against the Fort Worth Panthers without turning a hair, shutting out his opponents, 11 to 0.

COVELESKIE IS SLATED TO PITCH FIRST GAME

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Detroit, March 18.—It is understood from dispatches from the training camp of the Detroit Americans, at Waxahachie, Texas, that Manager Jennings will ask Coveleskie to pitch the opening game of the season in Chicago.

base runner and a better kisser than Benjie. Some Dodger has written "Katie" a few days ago, bringing him a letter from New York about the opening game of the season in Chicago.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

That National league rule which places the twenty-one player limit on all clubs of that organization is going to work a hardship on McGraw. His rivals in New York can carry as many players as they choose, there being no limit in the American league, though economy is preached, but McGraw must cut down, and he needs a lot of new men to make his team a possible pennant winner.

Hettingr Konnah, sub-chief of the Comanche Indians, will try out as a player with the Reds. He arrived in Shreveport a few days ago, bringing good recommendations from Mike Balenti, the Cheyenne Indian, who shortstopped for the Reds a short while three years ago. Hettingr Konnah is a Comanche man, speaks English, and seems in earnest about going into baseball. Incidentally, he says he may life Herzog's scalp if he doesn't get on the team, so it behooves Buck to be prepared for battle. As the chief is a shortstop, his chance of landing with the club is, to say the least, rather slender. Mr. Konnah is only 5 feet 7 and weighs 162 pounds. Buck may give the Comanche a recommendation to some Class B club.

The Tigers have resolved to center their attacks on the players and not the umpires this season. That's what they all say.

Barney Reilly, a lawyer and former ball player, has been nominated for mayor of St. Joseph, Mo., by the Democrats. Reilly came to the St. Joe team from the Chicago Americans. He was drafted by the Brooklyn, but returned to St. Joe, became a theatrical manager, and drifted into the law.

For the benefit of those who think that New York is a regular gold mine for boxers a few statistics regarding the late Benny Leonard-Shamus O'Brien bout in New York might be enlightening. It must be remembered that Benny is now the greatest attraction in New York excepting Willard and Moran. The gross receipts for the Leonard-O'Brien bout totaled $3,967. Of that Leonard received 35 per cent, or $1,383.32. The prices of admission were $1, $2, $3 and $6.

Benjie Kauff has nothing on Casey Stengel of the Brooklyn Dodgers as a booster. Stengel offers to bet any amount that before the season closes he will be a better hitter, a better and Sullivan is counted on to bring them into shape. He makes good in that role with the White Sox.

Frank Bancroft and several of his pals gave themselves the merry horse-lash an evening or two gone by. Benny received a handsomely engraved invitation to the opening soiree of a new club, and, as the card read "and friends" lost no time in gathering several of the boys together. Arrived even as Solomon in all his glory, Benny heading the parade, they marched to the "new club," and found when they were inside—that it was an African organization.

Pitchers are warned that Frank Baker still thinks a two-bagger is a bunt.

There is something unusual about Fielder Jones and Joe Tinker, the two managers who came into organized baseball from the Federal league. Both are of the opinion that their teams, the Browns and Cubs, are going to win the pennants in their respective leagues and it is a good betting proposition that neither will accomplish this. Both seem to have an exaggerated idea of the strength of their teams. They probably will have an awakening by the time the season is well under way.

Hughey Jennings has hopes of a pennant this year. He thinks his pitching staff, has been strengthened enough to warrant his beating out the other contenders in the race. Hughey has a great offensive team—of that there is no doubt—but heretofore he has lacked the necessary defensive strength on the rubber. Now this is said to have been obtained. Boehler, it seems, has been developed by Billy Sullivan, and one or two other youngsters give promise of coming through, all of which has made the Tigers' leader optimistic.

Joe Tinker has had a lively time down at Tampa. First, Phil Douglas reported in a condition described as "under the weather." Tinker immediately chased him from the training camp and later released him to St. Paul. Then Frank Schulte and George Zabel came into camp late, and as a penalty each was fined $100. Zabel later being released to Los Angeles, while Schulte was told he had lost his position as a regular and that Zwilling, an ex-outlaw, would get it. It is very evident that real Cubs will have to walk the mark if they expect to hold their own against the ex-Whales.

President Tener of the National has nothing on President Johnson of the American league when it comes to getting right into the training trenches. Mr. Johnson already is in the south. He will not visit all the training camps of his league, as Tener will his, but Ban attempts to even up by visiting such camps as are within reach, without regard to league. He has spent several days with the St. Louis Cardinals at San Antonio, Tex., watching their exhibition games. Primarily his object in visiting San Antonio is to get a brief vacation after a most strenuous winter.

According to Henry Edwards of the Plain Dealer, who is down south with the Indians, Cleveland has a better ball team than it has had for several years, but he thinks the team needs a couple of good pitchers in addition to the present staff in order to be prominent in the 1916 race. As it stands now, Morion and Mitchell are the only two pitchers who Root thinks will win. The other twirlers are mostly erratic and their manager has not much confidence in them. Hagerman is said not to retain the confidence in actual games that he displays in the practice warm-ups. If he did he would be one of the team's winning pitchers. Kieffer is criticised for not giving enough attention to the base runners of the opposing teams, which makes him a mark for having the bases run on him. Many games will be lost by him because of this weakness.

If they had any Automatics in Marlin, Benny Kauff would probably have taken his full dress suit along.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Generally fair tonight and Wednesday. Partly cloudy and warmer tonight and Wednesday.

DON'T SWAP HORSES.

"Don't swap horses in the middle of the stream." This is an old, tried saying that applies to Janesville just at the present time. Do not exchange a certainty for an uncertainty. Do not undo the work of the past four years by electing an avowed enemy of the commission form of government and a relic of the old council regime, for a man who has had four years' experience as a councilman, knows the duties and responsibilities of the office and is well equipped for the position.

Roy M. Cummings is a young man. He was elected city clerk by the young men of the city. He was re-elected to that office by the young men and he was chosen as one of the first councilmen by the young men. He is the young man's candidate and also the candidate of those who appreciate his value as a public official.

In everything that has come up for consideration before the present commission Mr. Cummings has looked on all sides of the question. Sometimes he has been with the mayor and his associates, sometimes against them, but he has had the people's interest at heart and his opinion has been based upon sound reasoning until convinced otherwise.

It is not merely running the water company, nor merely conducting the business of the electric lighting system of the city, that has taken his time and consideration, but the general finances of the city, the general business of the city, the general regulations that have been part of his work. He has done it well.

In view of these facts why change a certainty for an uncertainty with a possibility that the good work of the past four years be undone at one fell swoop. With taxes lower, with rates for water lower, with streets improved, with a better lighting system being installed, the change is a bad one. He should appreciate the worth of a man who has been one of the trio responsible for these changes.

The voters will make no mistake if on Tuesday next they cast their ballot for Roy M. Cummings for city councilman to succeed himself. He has been tried and not found wanting.

A BIT OF HISTORY.

"Eighty years ago, on the second day of March, Texas declared its independence of Mexico," says the Christian Science Monitor. "Citizens of the United States, especially from the South, had been immigrating thither for some time and in increasing numbers. It became clear to the Mexican authorities before long that unless this was stopped, and speedily, the American influence would soon be dominant. In 1830 further immigration from the United States was prohibited by act of the Mexican congress, and Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna undertook to enforce the interdiction. This person had entered the Spanish army in 1810 as a cadet, and later had served against the revolutionists, attaining the rank of captain. In 1821, however, he went over to Iturbide, declaring allegiance to that spectacular character as emperor only to abandon him a year later to become leader of a revolt at Vera Cruz which culminated in Iturbide's overthrow. For the four years of Guadalupe Victoria's presidency, Santa Anna was content to remain in retirement, but at the conclusion of this term he resumed his political activity. Meanwhile the Spanish army had invaded Mexico, under General Barradas, and Santa Anna was sent to meet the expedition. This he did successfully, forcing Barradas to capitulate at Tampico, Sept. 11, 1829, an achievement which made the former a national hero. An insatiable ambition for power soon led him into insurrection against the constitutional president, Gomez Pedraza.

"Santa Anna, although elected president after a fashion, preferred the roll of dictator, and assumed the regular functions of the executive only upon occasions, turning the details of administration over to the vice-president. Matters were so manipulated as to put the vice-president, whoever he might be, in the attitude of attempting to carry out reforms obnoxious to the church. When these had gone far enough to threaten serious opposition from the clericals, Santa Anna would resume the executive office, reverse policies and satisfy the ecclesiastical element. Thus, through intrigue, he soon became almost absolute in authority, going so far even as to suspend the constitution.

The Texas Americans in 1833 appealed to Santa Anna to grant a separate state government to them, but he positively refused, and two years later the settlers from the United States, with the support of immigrants from other countries, and with some aid from the natives, revolted, setting up a provisional government. Santa Anna almost immediately marched against the rebels, stormed the Alamo in San Antonio and on March 6, 1836, massacred the garrison. A little more than a month later he was defeated and captured by General Sam Houston, in command of the Texas revolutionary forces. This victory sealed the independence of Texas, and Houston became the first and only president of the Lone Star republic, which in 1845 was admitted to the American Union, when Houston was elected to the United States senate.

"Santa Anna continued for many years a disturbing influence in Mexico and an annoyance to the United States. An accomplished intriguer, he succeeded repeatedly in obtaining control of affairs in the southern republic, only repeatedly to lose his grasp. He was driven into exile three times, finally became a resident of the United States, and, to the very last, carried on conspiracies against the existing government in his native land.

"Naturally, the days of Santa Anna are reverted to with great interest in Texas now. Villa is not so able a man as was the dictator of the Alamo period, but in some characteristics it would be difficult to differentiate between the two. Villa in Santa Anna's time, and in Santa Anna's circumstances, might easily have become a dictator; Santa Anna in Villa's time, and in Villa's circumstances might easily have become a bandit. The name of Santa Anna, once exalted in the Southwest, is so intimately connected with the epic period in Texas history, has become so thoroughly engrafted into Texan legendry, is so closely identified with the names of that quintet of Texan heroes, Houston, Crockett, Bowie, Travis and Bessie, that in the days of Carranza it may be mentioned, says when the border brigand is on horseback and perpetrating outrages like that at Columbus, N. M., without reviving bitter memories.

"Perhaps it will be deemed worthy of recall here that in Santa Anna's time, as in Carranza's, sentiment very sharply divided on the question of Mexican invasion. Then, as in this later period, outrages had been committed by Mexican brigands, and sometimes by Mexican regulars, upon American settlers along the border; and often, north of the Rio Grande, feeling had been aroused to the highest pitch, and to a demand for summary measures. Yet, always, until apparently the final clash could no longer be averted, the conservative element prevailed. Such antagonism as the war aroused at the time was greatly modified by the military skill displayed in its conduct. Just seventy years ago anxious eyes were directed toward the republic to the south, and anxious ears were listening for tidings from that direction which would tell of the overthrow of Santa Anna, as they are today for news of the overthrow of Villa."

EFFICIENT MILITIA.

It seems probable that congress will meet the demand for better military preparation largely by increasing and forming the militia. One great reason why Secretary Garrison's Continental army has met with opposition, is the doubt whether young men would be required. Few men would be patriotic enough to give up a promising position to take the camp training required.

In the past history of militia work, encampments have been brief, and the drill at home too much dress parade. The present militia law provides for a certain amount of supervision by United States army officers. This has promoted much better results. But instruction needs to be more thoroughly organized, and more time given. Young men cannot be expected to give all this time for pure patriotic fervor.

Many of the essentials of military training can be given in a militia company's home town. A boy can learn to shoot in the back lots at home as well as at a Plattsburgh camp, given proper instruction. The principles of sanitation, first aid, etc., can be taught at home.

Army officers seem to feel that training in big camps is essential. Yet many militia officers say the army men value too little what is being done by training in smaller units at home. According to their view, the great advantage of training in big camps is that the officers get practice in the handling of large bodies of men. It would seem as if they should get this more through concentrations of the regular army, rather than by taking great bodies of young militiamen away from work.

It would be cheaper to take the officers to the militia, than the militia to the officers. A big force of army officers appointed to organize thoroughly the work in local companies, with fair pay for more time put into training, would make the National Guard far more effective than it now is.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT.

This is the most vital question that has confronted the voters of this country since the civil war. The following named prominent citizens for delegates to the republican national convention, to be voted on April 4, will be uninstructed. They, with representative republicans from every state, will select the best, most able and patriotic republican in the country as candidate for the presidency.

Delegates at large:
EMANUEL L. PHILIPP
S. A. COOK
B. H. BAENSCH
C. K. ELLINGSON.
District delegates:
GEORGE INGERSOLL,
WILLIAM STORMS.

Cut this out and take it to the polls that you may make no mistake in the names.

Her Last Effort.

The boy stood on the burning deck,
Devoid of fear or terror,
He softly said, "I'll bet my neck
That I have made an error!"

Despair flashed from her eyes. Her hair was in wild disorder. Her face was flushed and distorted. She was in a terrible dilemma. She looked like a dreadfully injured and desperate woman. With anger and indignation reaching to a dreadful height, she could stand it no longer.

"Merciless one—cruel one—I have stood it long enough. I was proud of you, of your beauty—your graces—proud of my possession of you—proud of the envy of my friends—I gloried in the enemies I made through my possession. Ah, but you are small—small! How I have been deceived! You have ruined my standing in society—tortured me until I screamed in the agony of my soul, and still I loved you! Yes, I loved you through it all! But now, aha! Yes, now—I end it all! I cast you from me forever!"

And with that she ripped off her hair and flung it into the fire. The agony was over and the tragedy ended!

BLIND YOUTH IS EDITOR OF WEEKLY PAPER IN OHIO

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milford, O., March 23.—C. Margee Adams, 22-year-old Ohio state university graduate, is the new editor of the weekly newspaper in this village, near Cincinnati.

He is blind. He writes heads, dictates the "make-up" of the paper, edits the "news" taken up by subscribers and conducts correspondence with other editors. He reports local news, and "reads" individually every line that the paper of the eight pages in this newspaper.

And that is not all. The paper has been revolutionized since the blind editor took charge a month ago, subscribers say. It is now arranged like a city daily with elaborate heads and "boxed features." It exhibits signs of enterprise which are as unfamiliar as they are interesting to its readers.

Adams uses a typewriter. An assistant reads many of the local items turned in by subscribers and he returns them with better news form. He attends meetings and the members there well without taking a note. He knows the number of letters in the alphabet and the styles of heads and devices and uses them in the manner as the editor who can see.

During spare hours he writes stories for magazines.

"It is much more difficult for me to edit a paper than for anyone else," says Adams. He is annoyed at being considered a prodigy and is re-

NO GERMAN CAN GET A RHODES SCHOLARSHIP
IF BILL IS PASSED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, March 28.—A bill has been introduced in Parliament to change the conditions of the Rhodes Scholarship trust so as to eliminate endowments for German students at Oxford.

There were 13 of these scholarships provided by the late Cecil Rhodes, of 350 pounds (about $1,250) each, nominations to be made by the Kaiser. The endowments, like those to American students, were made in the belief that "a good understanding between England, the United States of America and Germany would secure the peace of the world, and that educational relations form the strongest tie."

The move to undo Rhode's work is a tacit admission that, so far as Germany is concerned, his idea, generous as it was, was mistaken.

conclusion to determine the cause of the collapse of the road and the filling of suits by the receivers against directors and former directors. The receivers sought $14,000,000 for losses alleged to have resulted from the purchase of subsidiary lines. Later the receivers dismissed these suits and disclaimed the liability of the road for certain bond issues of subsidiary lines and stated that they did not believe the directors were guilty of actual or intentional fraud. The next move was submission to the Missouri public service commission of plans for the reorganization of the road.

The plan of the New York Central was approved in most of its provisions but the voting trust was rejected as illegal because it did not place the stockholders control of the road in the hands of the stockholders. The reorganizers who desired to retain control of the property during the early years of its operation by the Seligman, Speyer and Company, former chairman of the Erie Railroad, approved the voting trust plan. At the hearing before the commission, Frederick Stuss of Seligman and Company and Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, who was to be chairman of the Yaokum to be a factor in the Seligman company, and Mr. Strauss said he told Mr. Yaokum that it would be impossible to finance the reorganization without the aid of the chairman of the voting trust or made chairman of the executive committee.

Each new Zeppelin carries about ten machine guns and two or three smaller guns. The cannon are mounted on special platforms. It was found, however, that these were often hit, diminishing the craft's efficiency, so at present both machine guns and cannon are inside the gondola.

Several new bomb-throwing devices have been adopted. An equipment has been provided for pouring out poisonous gases upon enemies. The improved type of air ship is still almost entirely a combination of aluminum and steel, but it has been much simplified and the motors are far more powerful than the older ones. The "Friedrichshafen plant" has been increased fully 10 times in size and the number of employees has been multiplied by at least twenty. By April the Germans expect to be able to send three Zeppelins to the front weekly. The new "Gotha" and "Haut-Lanz" factories are said also to have increased their output at least ten times.

PANAMA'S OWN RAILROAD WILL BE DONE NEXT WEEK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Panama, March 28.—Panama's own railway, the Ferrocarril de Chiriquí, will be completed next month and put in operation under government control. Trains will be operated between Boquete and La Concepción, one due north and the other west of the capital of Chiriquí province.

The completion of the line to these two towns will be celebrated by President Porras who personally will visit the province and inspect the railway. A large number of invited guests from the United States and the Canal zone will accompany the president.

The total length of the line is about 100 miles divided into three branches—the main branch extends north from David the Boquete, one west to La Concepción and another to the Boquete, on the Boquete line to the Potrero Negro quarry. The main line touches the coast at Pedregal, the port for David, 100 miles south.

For the government funds are available. The government of Panama will help the sanitation work in David, the capital of the province of Chiriquí. Plans are now being made to build a sewage system and provide the city with water. The city can be easily constructed because the city streets have not yet been laid out permanently. Ample fresh water can be readily obtained from Rio David, a large mountain stream near the

TRAIN HURLS TWO GIRLS OVER CLIFF INTO LAKE
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Baraboo, Wis., March 28.—Miss Lola Whitmore, 22, of Utica, New York, and Miss Caroline Duran, 21, of New York City, graduates of the geology department at Chicago University, were killed Sunday afternoon by a western train, three miles south of here, while walking along the tracks. They were both on a station platform, waiting for a train, and were talking friends just outside the city. The accident occurred on a short stretch of the track, where there is a sharp curve and a high, sheer rock cliff on one side and Devil's Lake on the other. Both bodies were hurled into the lake, a distance of fifteen feet.

LAS VEGAS REFUSES RIGHT OF WAY. BRING OUTFIT INTO TOWN.—SEAGRUE.

Bill studied the message in dismay. It meant good-bye to all hope of patching up Seagrue's difficulties, and the abandonment of the construction. Without much of an effort to break the fall of the unpleasant intelligence, Bill told the men the orders and though they were greatly disgruntled and disinclined to do anything, he hurried them along to the job of striking camp.

Helen, with her companions in the commandeered machine, was approaching Seagrue's camp when the men with her discovered that the headquarters of the enemy looked deserted. Not a man was anywhere in sight around Seagrue's place. The machinery had disappeared and the outfit train was gone. Everywhere were marks of a hurried departure.

"Now what the blazes does that mean?" asked Rhineland, gazing astonished at the deserted village.

No one could answer. "You don't suppose they've quit?" teased Rhineland, speaking to no one in particular.

Storm scanned the abandoned camp. "Good riddance, anyway," he muttered.

"Not for me," declared Spike, dumfounded as the others were, as he got out of the car. "Not for me," he repeated, looking in every direction for a sight of Seagrue's missing equipment.

"Those guys, wherever they are, have got my kit. And just now," he added dryly, "it's the only one I happen to be carrying around with me."

A native son, who had been watching the cleaning up of Seagrue's camp, sauntered past the group. From him they learned that the men had gone with his train to town. Spike appeared disconcerted about the loss of his belongings.

"Don't worry," said Helen, lightly. "I can arrange that for you. I am going to return the machine to Seagrue in Las Vegas. You can get your kit there at the same time."

"Then you go with Helen," directed Rhineland, speaking to Storm.

He drew a pad from his pocket and wrote a note to the county recorder, asking him to deliver the certified copies of the deeds desired, to Helen. She had, meantime, gone over to their own camp with Storm, where both changed for the ride into town. When Helen reappeared Rhineland gave her the order:

"THE COUNTY RECORDER: ORIGINAL DEEDS COVERING OUR RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH LAS VEGAS WERE DESTROYED BY FIRE. PLEASE ISSUE CERTIFIED COPIES TO BEARER, MISS HELEN HOLMES.—AMOS RHINELANDER."

Helen read the note and handed it over to Storm for safekeeping. The two got into the motor car, called Spike, and the party started for Las Vegas.

Seagrue, whose persistence was proverbial among those that knew him, still stuck to his arguments before the council committee. They had again refused his requests and the scene had degenerated into a kind of wrangle with Seagrue walking up and down the room in a rage while the discussion went forward. It was only after the chairman had told him for the last time there was no chance of their changing their minds that Seagrue gave up.

Seagrue took his hat and left the room. Outside, he met his friend, the sheriff, and into his sympathetic ears Seagrue poured his troubles. His equipment train pulled into the Las Vegas terminal about the same time with an angry gang of men on board.

Helen, driving into Las Vegas, stopped the machine near the station. Spike's eye fell at once on the missing equipment train away from which Bill, in no very pleasant mood, was walking when Spike stepped out of the machine. As Spike advanced, Bill looked him over contemptuously, eyeing him from head to foot, to express his sentiments before he spoke. Helen and Storm came forward. Bill, with a lowering glance, faced them. "What're you doing with Seagrue's machine?" he demanded with insolent bluntness.

"I took it," returned Helen, "to save the lives of three men."

"You mean you stole it!" exclaimed Bill.

"Look here," interposed Storm. "Mind your words, you hobo, or you'll be in trouble before you know it."

Helen restrained her companion. As they left Bill directed Spike to stay there to watch the train. He, himself, hastened to Seagrue, whom he found at the moment the sheriff was leaving him. Bill told his employer the machine story and the two went back to the outfit train to see what condition the motor car had been left in.

Spike came forward as Seagrue and Bill appeared and while the latter two examined the machine.

"The girl and Storm came up with this crook in the machine," Bill said, nodding toward Spike.

"Where are they now?" demanded Seagrue of the convict.

"Up town getting something to eat," answered Spike.

LECTURE ON MUSIC PROVES REAL TREAT

Prof. Sleeper of Beloit College Gives Address Monday Evening Under Auspices of MacDowell Club.

An appreciative audience gathered at Library hall last evening to hear Prof. Sleeper of Beloit college in an interesting lecture on "Listening to Music," the affair being under the auspices of the MacDowell club.

Prof. Sleeper said that giving a definition of music was like pulling a butterfly apart to see how it was made, but to understand what the term meant, he would define it as "order, proportion, space and time."

Most artistic creation has been carefully thought out and the time sign is to make music legible. Tone is vibration and the quality or timbre of a musical tone, is the easiest to assimilate. Relations of pitch make melody or harmony. The world has advanced in the principles and application of harmony, but almost of even the old masters. Account has large influence in music and it shows the design laid out in a certain plan. The stimulus of the beat of the drum, for instance, shows in a marked degree the power of accentuation and rhythm.

Mr. Sleeper urged that his hearers cultivate the habit of listening to music with an open mind, and not being willing to say they did not "like the music of certain composers because they did not understand them."

He asked that people listen for the plan in music as unfolded in its particular, sonata or theme with variations. He said that music and architecture were much alike, both had plan, design and symmetry.

After the informal lecture was concluded twenty pictures of cathedrals were shown to illustrate the point.

Prof. Arbuthnot of the high school held the lecture of the stereopticon. The lecture explained that the type of arches represented the plan of the theme, with their constant repetition, that the moldings and ornaments were the light and shade and the spirals stimulated the thought of aspiration. As a concluding number on the program Miss May Trent gave Scarlati's Pastorale, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The public are certainly indebted to the MacDowell club for these delightful occasions which they have been able to enjoy. The present one, as explained by the lecturer, is demonstrated on the piano and as shown in pictures, proved how all the arts are bound into a harmonious whole expressed in various ways.

The club announced through its president that their next event would be in the form of a recital by Mrs. Eversley to take place in two weeks.

Spike's eye fell at once on the missing equipment train away from which Bill, in no very pleasant mood, was walking when Spike stepped out of the machine. As Spike advanced, Bill looked him over contemptuously, eyeing him from head to foot, to express his sentiments before he spoke. Helen and Storm came forward. Bill, with a lowering glance, faced them. "What're you doing with Seagrue's machine?" he demanded with insolent bluntness.

"I took it," returned Helen, "to save the lives of three men."

"You mean you stole it!" exclaimed Bill.

"Look here," interposed Storm. "Mind your words, you hobo, or you'll be in trouble before you know it."

Helen restrained her companion. As they left Bill directed Spike to stay there to watch the train. He, himself, hastened to Seagrue, whom he found at the moment the sheriff was leaving him. Bill told his employer the machine story and the two went back to the outfit train to see what condition the motor car had been left in.

Spike came forward as Seagrue and Bill appeared and while the latter two examined the machine.

"The girl and Storm came up with this crook in the machine," Bill said, nodding toward Spike.

"Where are they now?" demanded Seagrue of the convict.

"Up town getting something to eat," answered Spike.

The Catastrophe.

"Did you hear about the catastrophe down at Brown's last night?"

"No. What happened?"

"Why, Mrs. Brown gave the baby a bottle to play with, and while she was in the kitchen it fell from the cradle and broke its neck."

"What, the baby?"

"No, the bottle."—Exchange.

HAZEL DAWN IN A DETECTIVE COMEDY

"My Lady Inco" a Combination of Mystery, Romance and Comedy.

Girl detectives are hard to play on the screen without making them seem too melodramatic. The performance of charming Hazel Dawn in "My Lady Inco" at the Apollo yesterday was all the more remarkable for the thorough artistry displayed by her interpretation of Neil Carroll. It is a sympathetic role which is especially appealing because Neil is a self-reliant girl who faces peril without flinching and asks no quarter from anyone.

"My Lady Inco" is a mystery story with the touch of romance and the dash of comedy that make it one of Miss Dawn's best efforts. The interiors and exteriors are beautiful.

AT THE APOLLO

"Pudd'nhead Wilson" on Wednesday. It is an exciting scene of "Pudd'nhead Wilson" which will be seen at the Apollo on Wednesday, under the direction of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play company, were taken in the small town in Missouri in which Mark Twain laid his immortal story. Some of the buildings of that period still stand and the slave quarters which are shown are what is left of the historical old plantation near the town.

(Minneapolis Tribune.)

Big moments in the play were heartily applauded. At one time, when Libby laid his immortal story. Some of the buildings of that period still stand and the slave quarters which are shown are what is left of the historical old plantation near the town.

The picture is a "Preparedness" propaganda play, and from the moment it opened with the caption "America is the land of peace and plenty," until the close, showing the ruin of the country's foremost cities, there was not a dull moment.

A picture of President Wilson at the desk, surrounded by a throng of advisers, brought a thunder of cheers, while the crowd in the house stood to a man when the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Play is Spectacular.

Spectacular is the only word that could be applied to "The Battle Cry of Peace," and it is almost impossible to realize the magnitude of the scale on which it has been produced. There are thousands of people in the play, buildings and ships are burned and blown up with an utter disregard to expense. Big guns are shown in action and torpedoes are dropped from destroyers, their course being plainly visible as they wind their way toward their prey.

AT THE APOLLO.

"Chimmie Fadden Out West" Tonight. In bringing before the photographic public again the popular American Comedian, Victor Moore, the Apollo is complying with many requests.

Chimmie Fadden is a character of American literature likely to live as long as Tom Sawyer or other famous youths of fiction. Chimmie is city bred. He is a product of the Bowery, with all the instincts and mannerisms of the city ruffian, whose vision of life is limited by skyscrapers and stone pavements.

What happens to Chimmie when he goes to the far west, becomes a mining prospector and tries the simple life is most interestingly told in "Chimmie Fadden Out West."

Chimmie Fadden Out West will be presented tonight at the Apollo.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

One of the most notable and interesting men in the film world is Hobart Bosworth, the actor-director who has attained such great success with his feature films. He was born in Ohio and when a mere lad, ran away to sea, landing finally in San Francisco. He made many futile attempts at different occupations, and then drifted into the theatrical profession. After many more trials and tribulations he won success playing with such celebrities as Augustin Daly, Henrietta Crossman, Julia Marlowe, Minnie Maddern Fiske and others.

Mr. Bosworth will shortly appear as the star in "The Yaqui," a picture-legend of old Mexico. The film is based on incidents in Dane Coolidge's novel, "The Land of the Yaqui," and will be a timely exposition of the methods of warfare and vengeful intrigue in Mexico.

"RACE SUICIDE" STARS COMMENT.

From a mysterious "nowhere" and an anonymous "somebody" there has come since the release and first showing of a motion picture production, "Race Suicide," a deluge of letters commenting upon the theme which Joseph Farmum has selected. In the majority of instances the letters have been commendatory, and justly so. The film, not only has passed the censors in all states where it has been shown, but it has stirred admiration from the standpoint of the moral taught, and also because of the beauty of the theme.

The story is set in the far-off time of the cave man and deals with his mode of living, his loves, his hopes. It affords for the actors and actresses rare opportunity for clever work, and they make the best of the opportunity.

WOULDN'T LET THE CENSORS RUIN PLAY.

Pittsburgh censors barred a scene from the "Battle Cry of Peace."

This was the scene in which a woman shoots her two daughters to save them from capture by an army invading New York.

The exhibitor said the scene was necessary to the play, and found a way to evade the order of the censors.

He employed three actresses, and when that point in the picture arrived, the lights were turned on, the curtain raised and the scene was acted out on the stage. Then the lights were turned off again and the screen pictured the rest of "The Battle Cry of Peace."

Fifty-six Indians were used in connection with the making, "Gold and the Woman." One of the scenes in the picture shows the demolition of an Indian camp by dynamite.

Mae Marsh, the film actress who had the chief role in "The Birth of a Nation," is to be featured this month in a play called "Hoodoo Ann."

Jack London has written a movie serial called "Hearts of Three."

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicines as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

When get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (40 cents), pour into a pint of water, stir for 2 minutes, give you as good syrup as money can buy.

It takes hold of the usual cough or cold and soothes the inflamed membrane in the case of a painful cough, and also the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

It is truly astonishing how quickly it breaks the dry, hoarse or tight cough and breaks and soothes the inflamed membrane in the case of a painful cough, and also the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiaac, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CHAPTER VIII

Chaff of War

Dinner that evening in the faded dining-room of the Hotel Splendide was for the folk from Kewanee, aside from Captain Woodhouse, the only persons at table there. Woodhouse, true to the continental tradition of exclusiveness, had isolated himself against possible approach by sitting at the table farthest from the Sherman's. The afternoon visit to the bazaars had been anything but a success, emphasizing, as it did, the poverty in the midst of a plenty conspicuous of the more letter of credit. Henry was wallowing in the lowest depths of nostalgia; he tortured himself with the reflection that this was lodge night in Kewanee and he would be sitting in his chair. Miss Kitty contemplated with melancholy the distress of her parents.

"I'm tired," the youth with tired eyes and affecting the bland smile of the boulevard appeared in the door and cast about for a choice of tables. "I'm Sherman. Impaired with a glass of champagne, which suddenly changed to a glass of water. He dropped his fork and jumped to his feet.

"Bless me, mother, if it isn't Willy! Kimball from old Kewanee! Sherman waved his napkin at the young man, summoning him in the name of Kewanee to come and meet the home folks. The three eyes lighted on the boy. "What a sight! He looked like a man who had been played out and stepped up to the table.

"Why, Mrs. Sherman—and Kitty!—Kimball! From Paris? Charming! He accented the proffered seat on the side of Kitty, receiving their hearty bails with laudable politeness. With the sureness of English restraint, Mr. Willy Kimball did not become excited. He was of the type of exalted Americans who try to forget grandpa's corned beef and grandma's hand-churned butter. His speech was of Rotten Row and his clothes Piccadilly.

"Terrible business, this!" The youth fluttered his hands freely. "All this harrying about and peeping at one another! I'm afraid I'll have to go over to America until it's all over—on my way now, in fact."

"African!" Sherman sniffed loudly and disapprovedly. "Well, if it would be too bad if you had to go back to Kewanee after your man's in Paris, France; now, wouldn't it?"

Kimball turned to the women for sympathy. "Reserved a compartment to come down from Paris. Beasley—other people crowd in my compartment, thought I'd paid to have a private car, of course—soldier chap comes along and seizes my valet and makes him join the colors and all that sort."

"Hush! Your father managed to worry along without a valet, and he was respected in Kewanee." This in dissent from Henry J.

Kitty flashed a reproving glance at her father and deftly turned the expatriate into a recounting of his adventures. Under her unaffected lead the youth shuddered inwardly at the recitation of Willy's shoulder considerably, and soon there was an animated swapping of reminiscences of the Great Terror—hours on end before the desks and express offices, dodging of police investigation, scrambling for steamer accommodations, all that went to compose the refugee Americans' great epic of August, 1914.

Sherman took pride in his superior accentures. "Three times, my bet, between Berlin and Gibraltar, and what I said to that Dutchman on the Swiss frontier was enough to make his hair curl."

"Tell you what Willy: you come on back to Kewanee with us, and mother and I'll lecture before the Thursday Afternoon Ladies' Literary Club." Sherman broomed, with a hearty blow of the hand between Willy's shoulder blades. "I'll have Ed Porter announce it in advance in the Daily Enterprise, and we'll have the whole town there to listen. Ezra Kimball's Boy Talk, 'Tale of Wars and Woes'—that's the way the head-lines'll read in the Enterprise next week."

The expatriate shivered and tried to smile. "We'll let mother do the lecturing. Kitty came to his rescue. "How to Live in Europe on a Letter of Discredit. That will have all the gossip of Kewanee buzzing around her. The meal drew to a close happily in contrast to its beginning. Mrs. Sherman and her daughter rose to pass out into the reception room. Sherman and Kimball lingered.

"Ah-h, Willy—"

"Mr. Sherman—"

Both began in unison, each somewhat furtive and ashamed. "Have you any money?" The queries were voiced as one. For an instant confusion; then the older man looked up into the younger's face—a big flush hit him—and guffawed. "Not a postage stamp, Willy! I guess we're both beggars, and if mother and Kitty didn't have five trunks between them, this Swiss hold-no-man who says he's proprietor of this way-station hotel wouldn't trust us for a free egg."

"Same here," admitted Kimball. "I'm badly bent."

"They can't keep us down—us Americans!" Sherman cheered, taking the youth's arm and piloting him into the reception room. "We'll find a way out if we have to cable for a warship to come and get us."

Just as Sherman and Kimball emerged from the dining-room, there was a diversion out beyond the glass doors on Waterloo Street. A small cart drew up; from its seat jumped a young woman in a duster and with a heavy automobile veil swathed under her chin. To the Arab porter who had bounded out to the street, she gave directions for the removal from the cart of her baggage, two heavy suitcases and two ponderous oyster baskets. These latter she was particularly tender of following them to the hotel's reception room and directing where they should be placed before the desk.

The newcomer was Jane Gerson, Hildebrand's buyer, at the end of a gasoline flight from Paris. Cool, capable, self-reliant as on the night she saw the bastions of the capital's outer forts face under the white spikes of the search-lights, Jane strode to the desk to face the smiling Almer.

"Is this a fortress or a hotel?" she challenged.

"A lady, a hotel," Almer purred. "A nice room—yes. Will the lady be with us long?"

"Heaven forbid! The lady is going to be on the first ship leaving for New York. And if there are no ships, I'll have over the stock of coal barrels you have in your harbor." She seized a pen and dashed her signature on the card. The Sherman's had pricked up their ears at the woman's first words. Now Henry J. pressed forward, his face glowing welcome.

"An American—a simon-pure citizen of the United States! I thought, welcome to the little old Rock! He took both the girl's hands impulsively and pumped them. Mrs. Sherman, Kitty and Willy Kimball crowded around her, and the clatter of voices was instantaneous. "Not a thing to eat for three days but rye bread!" "From Strasbourg to Lunenburg in a fortnight!" "Each in a whirlwind of exclamation tried to outdo the other's story of hardship and privation.

The front doors opened again, and the sergeant and Almer who had carried Fritz, the barber, entered. Again knuckles thumped impulsively. Jane looked over her shoulder at the khaki-coated men, and confided in the Sherman's. "I think that man's been following me ever since I landed from the ferry."

"I have," answered the sergeant, speaking briskly forward and smiling. "You're a strange woman, on the Rock. You come here from—"

"From Paris, by motor, to the town across the bay; then over here on the ferry. The girl answered promptly.

"What about it?"

"Your name."

"Jane Gerson. Yes, yes, it sounds German, I know. But that's not my name. I'm an American—a red-hot American, too, for I'm a Jew."

The sergeant's face was wooden. "Where are you going?"

"To New York, on the Saxonia, just as she can."

"Where can you stop me?"

"Indeed!" The sergeant permitted himself a fleeting smile. "From Paris by motor, eh? Your passports, please."

"I haven't any," Jane retorted, with a shade of defiance. "They were taken from me in Spain, just over the French border, and were not returned."

She seized a pen and dashed her signature on the card. The Sherman's had pricked up their ears at the woman's first words. Now Henry J. pressed forward, his face glowing welcome.

"An American—a simon-pure citizen of the United States! I thought, welcome to the little old Rock! He took both the girl's hands impulsively and pumped them. Mrs. Sherman, Kitty and Willy Kimball crowded around her, and the clatter of voices was instantaneous. "Not a thing to eat for three days but rye bread!" "From Strasbourg to Lunenburg in a fortnight!" "Each in a whirlwind of exclamation tried to outdo the other's story of hardship and privation.

The front doors opened again, and the sergeant and Almer who had carried Fritz, the barber, entered. Again knuckles thumped impulsively. Jane looked over her shoulder at the khaki-coated men, and confided in the Sherman's. "I think that man's been following me ever since I landed from the ferry."

"I have," answered the sergeant, speaking briskly forward and smiling. "You're a strange woman, on the Rock. You come here from—"

"From Paris, by motor, to the town across the bay; then over here on the ferry. The girl answered promptly.

"What about it?"

"Your name."

"Jane Gerson. Yes, yes, it sounds German, I know. But that's not my name. I'm an American—a red-hot American, too, for I'm a Jew."

The sergeant's face was wooden. "Where are you going?"

"To New York, on the Saxonia, just as she can."

"Where can you stop me?"

"Indeed!" The sergeant permitted himself a fleeting smile. "From Paris by motor, eh? Your passports, please."

"I haven't any," Jane retorted, with a shade of defiance. "They were taken from me in Spain, just over the French border, and were not returned."

Didn't Expect To Live

In a letter to the Pinus laboratories, Mrs. G. O. Walker, of Walker, Lane County, Oregon, writes:

"I have been taking Fruitola and it has been a great relief. I suffered so with gall-stones my family and friends didn't expect me to live."

Fruitola is a powerful intestinal lubricant and softens the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, expelling the congested waste in an easy, natural manner, to the sufferer's great relief. A single dose is usually sufficient to clearly indicate its efficacy. To build up and restore the weakened, run-down system, Traxo is highly recommended as a tonic-alterative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Jansville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 West Milwaukee St.

Dinner Stories

A boy was arraigned in police court on a charge of stealing five dollars from his employer. The boy secured a lawyer and entered a plea of "not guilty."

The lawyer believed in the boy's innocence and spoke very eloquently on the injustice of the arrest, dwelling particularly on what it would mean to the boy in future life if he were sent to prison. The court dismissed the case.

Immediately after, the boy asked the lawyer the amount of his fee. "How much have you got?" queried the lawyer.

"Well," replied the boy, "I've got that five dollars."

Mark Twain once, in the course of a speech, talked of his pet aversion, "Christian Science," he said, "reminds me of the apple cure for drunkenness. In Hannibal, in my boyhood I remember once hearing the Hannibal town drunkard expatiate on the apple cure."

"Believe in it? How could I help believing?" in 1917 the drunkard was excitedly. "Ain't it cured me eight times?"

J. K. Bemis and family have moved to the home of Jacob Wiggins, where they will reside indefinitely.

Miss Florence Davis returned to her school work again Sunday after a week's illness at home.

The latest word from H. O. Barlow of Falls, Texas, who has been confined to his bed the past three weeks with a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia, is that he is on the road to recovery. His many Wisconsin friends were glad to hear the good news.

William Sornow, Sr., left Saturday morning for Gothenburg, Nebraska. He accompanied his brother's wife to her home for an indefinite visit. She came here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sornow.

Miss Verna Davis was an over-Sunday visitor at the parental home. She returned to her duties at Ft. Atkinson Monday.

School district No. 2 opened again Monday afternoon after a two weeks' intermission. Miss Sutherland of Amesville is teacher.

Appleton, March 28.—A petition which has been freely signed was presented to the governor today, asking for more game wardens on the Wolf river.

OUT OF THE RACE
When a person wakes up with a stiff back, has pains in muscles, aches his joints, or has rheumatic twinges, he lacks ambition and energy and cannot do his best. If you feel out of the race, tired and languid, or have other symptoms of kidney trouble, you should act promptly. Foley Kidney Pills help the kidneys do their work and get out of the system the poisonous waste matter that causes much trouble. They give relief from sleep-disturbing bladder disturbances.—W. T. Sherer.

FARMERS' ATTENTION!

City Gas in the Country

Investigate BLAUGAS.

The greatest convenience of the modern home is gas. Country homes can now have gas for cooking, lighting, ironing, heating water, etc., the same as city homes.

BLAUGAS is absolutely safe, efficient and economical.

A post card or phone call will bring you full information.
